Your tour! Following Goethe's footsteps

Goethe was a Frankfurt native: "On the 28th of August, 1749, at the stroke of midday, I was born into the world in Frankfurt am Main." In his autobiography, entitled "From My Life. Poetry and Truth", Goethe shares stories from his colourful life, focusing in particular on the time between 1749 and 1775. This excellent guided tour takes a closer look at the Frankfurt of Goethe's time.

The route leads along St. Paul's Church, Rossmarkt and Hauptwache, where you can have a look on the memorial plaque at the Haus zum Goldenen Brunnen, residence of Goethe's mother after the sale of the original Goethe house. Landmark is Goethe House and the inside visit! It is next door to the Goethe Museum, which opened to the public along with the restored Goethe House in 1954, and nearby are the excavated foundations of the Jewish ghetto, which, along with the Jewish cemetery, gives a further glimpse of the older Frankfurt as Goethe himself experienced it.
